Dr. Jim Henderson, Chair
Northwestern State University Presidential Search Committee
1201 North Third Street, Suite 7-300
Baton Rouge, La. 70802

Dear Dr. Henderson and Search Committee:

Please accept this letter as my application for the position as President of Northwestern State University and as an expression of my sincere and wholehearted desire to lead this cherished school to the greatest heights in its 133-year history.

My passion for Northwestern, extensive experience in numerous realms of higher education and enthusiasm to serve the university and community establish the qualifications that will be vital in guiding the university in the future.

This letter and attached resume underscore the credentials, capabilities, characteristics, expertise, vision and relationships that make me the most qualified candidate to maintain and build upon the momentum, traditions and excellence of my Alma Mater.

Twenty-eight years of experience in a number of important positions at Northwestern gives me a unique understanding of the university’s goals and mission, an appreciation for its greatest strengths and potential and a knowledge of areas that should and must be enhanced.

My rich and varied background at Northwestern as a coach, teacher and administrator and my service to the university in such diverse and critical areas as admissions and recruitment, enrollment management, athletics, alumni relations, fund-raising and advancement, external affairs, student affairs and as acting president provide a solid foundation from which to lead NSU into an era of unprecedented progress, excellence and major achievement.

The strategic plan that serves as a blueprint for the university’s future focuses on the five critical areas of academic excellence, the student experience, athletic prominence, market responsiveness and community enrichment with the goal of becoming the nation’s premier regional university. My experience and expertise traverses every segment and tenet of the strategic plan.

Leadership positions in various areas of the university have allowed me to establish a close rapport with students, faculty, staff, alumni, donors, political, civic and educational leaders, colleagues at other institutions, education-related organizations and other stakeholders and entities associated with Northwestern and the state, regional and national higher education community. My years of service to Northwestern, life-long residency and civic engagement in Natchitoches have inspired trust and confidence in my leadership at the university from those who care about the school.
Serving on the faculty and in the classroom for nearly three decades has helped prepare me for the presidency through continual and emphatic confirmation that student success and achievement must be at the very core of any university’s mission and that faculty members who teach, guide and inspire students are the heart and soul of higher education institutions.

My experience in admissions and recruiting has resulted in close and lasting relationships with principals, counselors, teachers and coaches throughout Louisiana. Those ties and connections will serve me well as president of Northwestern. Years of work in that area also created for me a close bond with students even before they enrolled at the university and a relationship with many of those young people that continued through their college careers and beyond. Success in recruitment requires the establishment of trust with students, parents and school officials, and that spirit of mutual confidence has been an important factor in that phase of my work at Northwestern over the years.

Overseeing every aspect of student affairs as Vice-President for the Student Experience has given me a valuable perspective of the needs of our students to succeed academically and to develop lifetime skills through participation in student activities and organizations. This position, more than anything else, reinforces the basic principle that our primary goal at the university must be to provide students a safe, healthy, vibrant environment in which to learn and participate in student experiences that will provide the foundation for meaningful and rewarding lives after leaving the university.

Leading a team in university advancement with emphasis on fund-raising and alumni relations provided skills and knowledge in obtaining private financial support for scholarships and other programs and projects. During my tenure as Executive Director of the NSU Foundation and NSU Alumni Association, our development team worked with donors to establish three $1 million endowed chairs, 45 $100,000 endowed professorships and 10 $100,000 endowed first-generation scholarships. In addition, we completed the university’s first ever, comprehensive capital campaign that generated more than $32 million in external funding to the university. That far exceeded the goal for the program.

That experience is extremely important for university presidents during these times of diminishing state financial resources. The position in advancement also allowed me to develop close relationships with countless alumni and donors whose support is increasingly essential to Northwestern. By interacting with thousands of Northwestern graduates over the years, my appreciation of the success of so many alumni in every field of endeavor and the importance of those graduates in expanding the positive image of the university was substantially intensified.

My involvement in athletics as an undergraduate student-athlete and later as a coach and administrator underscored for me the importance of the athletics program at Northwestern and the positive role that intercollegiate sports can play at a university. Serving for years in administrative positions in support of athletics has increased my appreciation and understanding of the value of student athletes and competitive sports programs to NSU and other institutions. My involvement in athletics has included participation on numerous search committees for head coaches, officiating at conference championship events and serving as co-chair of the NCAA Certification process. That position allowed me to work with the athletic administration and others to ensure that NSU operates its athletics program in compliance and conformity with the principles of NCAA Division 1 membership.

My experience in recent months as Acting President has allowed me to become much more knowledgeable and proficient in the higher education profession. It has made me more passionate about the quality of our university and its place of leadership in preparing people for the workforce and for meaningful lives, and it has made me more compassionate in my relationships with those who serve Northwestern and whom the university serves. The position has made me more efficient and more effective in addressing and resolving problems and issues that face NSU and other universities.

This extensive, wide range of experience makes me uniquely prepared to lead Northwestern in its strategic plan for academic excellence, robust and positive student experiences, athletic prominence, market responsiveness and community enrichment.

My preparation for the presidency of Northwestern has been enriched by service on numerous committees focusing on virtually every area of the university, the presentation of papers and academic research at many higher education conferences, participation in state, regional and national higher education organizations and other activities that have allowed me to grow professionally.

There have been numerous and significant achievements in areas of the university that were under my supervision over the years, including record enrollment growth, increased diversity, fund-raising campaigns that exceeded established goals, an increase in the number of chairs and professorships, new partnerships with business and industry and other educational institutions and dramatic growth in alumni engagement.

Serving as a tenured member of the distinguished faculty at Northwestern is one of my most significant accomplishments, and receiving the Faculty Member of the Year award from the Student Government Association was one of my greatest honors. It was also an honor that will be cherished for a lifetime to be selected as Mr. NSU as a student at the university, where being involved in athletics, student life, honor societies and other activities created the underpinnings for a meaningful, productive life.

My allegiances and priorities are underscored by a strong commitment to my wonderful family, devotion to my church and related religious activities and extensive involvement in civic and community endeavors. Those activities have included membership on the board of a local bank, serving as president of the Board of Directors for the foundation of the local medical center and membership on the city’s Recreation Commission and Economic Development Commission. Nearly three decades of service to the local community has helped make me an effective administrator at Northwestern and would be beneficial to me as president.

Northwestern is a special place where thousands of students from every socio-economic level and from all of the diverse cultures of Louisiana and the region have earned degrees that provided them opportunities for success. Dynamic leadership over the past two years resulted in academic improvements, expanded student services, upgraded physical facilities and other progress and advancements. It would be an honor for me serve as Northwestern’s next president and to build upon that momentum to make our university even greater.

My love for the university is reflected in a lifetime of dedicated service and loyalty to the school. The presidency for me would not be just a job or position but a steadfast commitment to work with faculty, staff and other stakeholders in making the university an even more vibrant force in higher education and economic development in this region and the state.

Thank you for your consideration of my application to become president of Northwestern State University.

Sincerely,

Dr. Chris Maggio
Acting President
JOSEPH CHRISTOPHER MAGGIO
