Dr. Jimmy Clarke, Chair
Board of Supervisors
University of Louisiana System
1201 North Third Street, Suite 7-300
Baton Rouge, LA 70802

Dear Chairman Clarke, President Gallot, Members of the Search Committee, and the McNeese State University Community:

Excellence with a Personal Touch was the motto established at McNeese State University when I was a student there and served as the cornerstone of my career spent serving students and ensuring educational opportunity. In seeking to find a successor to President Burckel, the Board has established the need to have a leader who is visionary, entrepreneurial at a variety of levels, as well as being community and student centered. When I reviewed the profile and considered the intimate knowledge I have of the University, I became extremely motivated in the desire to serve my alma mater at this critical time in its history.

As a results-oriented and motivated leader in higher education with rich experience at several Louisiana institutions, I am confident I can work with the McNeese community as President to make immediate contributions that challenge, educate, and prepare global leaders in a transformational environment focused on excellence, student success, and making a positive impact on the larger community. To that engagement, I offer my desire to help McNeese facilitate a place of purpose ignited by opportunity, skill cultivation, creativity, and innovation; I therefore present my curriculum vitae for your review.

I grew up in a small town in Southwest Louisiana (Welsh) on a rice and cattle farm. As a first-generation college student, my professional motivation has been to help students (many who are like me) to achieve their potential and purpose through educational opportunity. Working toward this goal, my career has spanned across South Louisiana, South Carolina, and Texas where I have worked extensively on a focus toward student success. This experience aligns closely with the focus that McNeese has on engaging a vibrant, student-centered culture that is focused on changing the lives of students through quality education and to provide services to the employers and communities in its region; thus, leading me to this opportunity. McNeese has always had the ability to provide the foundation for students to serve in a challenging global environment by providing high-quality, interest-driven programs that present a unique practical focus which builds character for a generation of leaders – I know this from my own personal experience with multiple degrees from the institution.

The next McNeese President must facilitate a quality experience for students, faculty/staff, alumni, and the greater community. The University's foundational pillars are aligned with my personal values and past experience, allowing me to effectively serve the institution relative to student access, success, attainment, community engagement, and unwavering institutional excellence. Some highlights of my background include:

- Strategic planner and organizational/team optimizer at all levels.
- Student-centered leader that spearheaded growth and development of programs to support student persistence and perseverance across the student life cycle.
- Worked with multi-million-dollar budgets and complex organizational structures to achieve success and facilitate responsible growth.
- Bold practitioner that implemented high achiever and inclusive recruitment programs which significantly increased student diversity and outcomes at several institutions, including LSU, The University of Louisiana, The University of New Orleans, Lander University, and Texas A&M University – Corpus Christi
- Transparent and engaged leader who expanded opportunities, at the highest level, for collaboration across the University community – from students, faculty, staff, alumni, collegial institutions, and from other external and community sources.
- Educational leader familiar with the nuances of being an administrator in the rapidly changing world of higher education.
- Executive adept at understanding how to diversify the revenue stream (e.g., enrollment, funding sources).
- Experienced at resource development; secured and facilitated in excess of $ 2 million in targeted fundraising, grant, and in-kind donation support.
- Strong communicator and facilitator experienced at collaborating with various constituent groups including boards, governmental officials, and other support agencies.

Educational philosophy. The accomplishments shared over the course of my career have been due to a guiding value of helping students to reach their potential. As a first-generation college student, in many ways I should have been a stop-out statistic. Thereby, I have been conscious of providing information and educational opportunity to students and their families through carefully crafted programming and communication endeavors designed to guide, mentor, and motivate action toward degree/career development and degree attainment. To this end, my passion has been laser focused on student persistence and engagement throughout the student enrollment life cycle. I believe in, and advocate for, an educational setting where faculty and leadership cultivate this engaged environment where students are challenged to embrace new ideas, new concepts, and higher order thinking to build the skills necessary to actively participate in a consistently evolving global environment. To do this, I value investment in ensuring that faculty have the support and resources requisite to disseminate knowledge as well as cultivating a hands-on and experiential learning engagement which exposes students to primary practice before they depart the educational setting; this aligns itself perfectly with the purpose-driven programs at McNeese. As President, I will work to build a shared investment in the educational mission of the institution between internal and external constituencies to give our students knowledge and skill foundation, thus creating their best chance to be successful in chosen career or educational pathways.

Leadership and management philosophy. The landscape of higher education is changing. I can tell you from experience that resources are limited, and educators must be wise stewards of public and private funds. Leaders must be well-versed in being able to facilitate a culture where mission, vision, and strategic objectives are a shared function of the various constituencies of the institution. In addition, leaders must embrace the teaching, mentoring, and service functions of the institution to help forge a spirit of innovation that will help McNeese advance beyond the traditional ways of doing things to explore new avenues of opportunity. The guiding principle must be collaboration and cooperation. Throughout my entire career I have sought to partner with areas across campus, and with those beyond campus, in order to help create an innovative approach to governance, specifically in enrollment-related areas. These pursuits have forged partnerships with other institutions to present novel opportunities for enrollment and completion, as well as to help engage mentorship and the involvement of community groups. The proudest moments during my career have been when my colleagues have attained great goals, when students have flourished, and when the universities have achieved success. The achievements on my CV are not 'mine,' they are 'ours.' As President, I will lead by example and work to create collaborative relationships with the ultimate outcomes of student success and their contribution to society in mind.

Data-driven approach. Over the years, my organizations have adopted principles to support strong client services (both internally and externally) and have all been fully embracing data-driven approaches to administration. To this end, I am a data driven leader who believes that metrics help to shape successful operations. Trends should be regularly evaluated to determine the likelihood of success, especially with the strong dependence on tuition revenue to meet budgetary expectations. From this experience, I have focused on the use of analytics as a platform ensuring successful management strategies and appropriate outcomes as we concentrated on impacting student progression. As evidenced in my vitae, I have led efforts to increase enrollment and created a strategic focus on each campus where I have worked. Through these efforts, we have fundamentally changed enrollment trajectories in positive directions. I have learned firsthand the complexities surrounding higher education administration and that analytical models help to ensure likelihood of success. This data-driven approach has enabled me to set and evaluate strategic priorities, manage effectively, allocate resources appropriately, as well as to focus attention on more longitudinal goals. This approach has also equipped me to stay ahead of the proverbial curve in student enrollment as I have worked to incorporate effective strategies that cultivate and engage new enrollment groups (e.g., returning students with some college and no degree, adult populations, and online programs).

Commitment to belonging. The most successful institutions are the ones who support programs that take on more of a global focus. Over the course of my career, I have been fortunate to work at diverse institutions including an urban research institution and a Hispanic serving institution. I have worked with students, alumni, faculty, and community groups to provide educational opportunity and avenues for multicultural support and development, which have enriched the student experience. My belief is that part of our responsibility as educators is to help create a place of engagement and ensure that opportunities for understanding, respect, inclusion, and growth are embedded within the institutional setting and carried forth by its community.

Because I have decades of relevant experience in Louisiana (including nearly a decade spent as a student and an employee at McNeese), I am excited and extremely motivated about the possibility of serving in this position. Serving as President will allow me the opportunity to utilize my knowledge in a comprehensive role within the vocation that is my absolute passion. I have demonstrated experience which will be beneficial to the institution as it works toward strengthening relationships with constituents and community partners, ensure enrollment and financial stability, provide excellent education founded in academic and workforce preparation, as well as working to cultivate an environment that will prepare students to be active and engaged leaders in the world for many years to come. For me, it is personal. McNeese helped me to become the person that I am today. McNeese is the reason why I have crafted my career focus in higher education; and all of this is why I want to offer everything that I have as a professional to pay forward and partner with the University community to foster and enhance the Cowboy spirit that can help the University achieve future success in academics, student engagement, athletics, and in innovation to help Southwest Louisiana in developing and sustaining its workforce.

Higher education institutions will have challenges from time to time, and McNeese has experienced its share. As someone who has studied and worked at McNeese, I know the unique opportunities and challenges the new President will face, especially as the institution and the University of Louisiana System grows stronger in the ever-evolving world of higher education. I can tell you wholeheartedly that the solutions to success exist at McNeese and in partnership with the community. These solutions include a commitment to managed growth, sustainable program and course offerings, expanding academic and research potential, employee development, student life enhancement, empowering and collaborating within the institutional community, sustaining engagements with the external community, and continuing the development of the institution as one of the premier catalysts for student development and engagement in the area. The path to success and continued progress exists through knowledge, innovation, interaction, and the commitment of each of us working together. The leader selected for this position must know how to embrace these things as well as new endeavors; they must lead, they must listen, and they must engage. I have built a career helping universities reach their potential, and I am certain that I can help 'My' McNeese State University sustain its motto instilled in me as a freshman 34 years ago, excellence with a personal touch.

I welcome the opportunity to discuss my interest in, and qualifications for, this position with you. Thank you in advance for your consideration.

Sincerely,
